Dr. Jimmy Imo Joins NCCU

LET'S CELEBRATE OUR VERY OWN & NOW, PROFESSOR. JIMMY IMO (NWAETERENMANU!)

A star is a star wherever it appears! Our Imo State President Emeritus, who recently returned back to us here in Raleigh, following his hugely successful political adventure in Nigeria has bagged two prestigious academic institution appointments.

It is both my pleasure & a privilege to announce to everyone in this Raleigh Community that, with effect from January 4, 2026, North Carolina Central University ( NCCU) has appointed Prof. Imo, as Adjunct Professor of Political Science, in the department of Political Science. He has since resumed, and his first class was on Monday, January 12, 2026.

Concurrently, Texas Southern University, Houston, equally appointed Prof. Imo, as a Research Fellow of the Africa Institute for Strategic Security Studies (AISSS). Prof. Imo (Nwaetere-nmanu), your outstanding contents & qualities are speaking on your behalf! You are a true Igbo son & son of the soil! We as a people & community are proud of you, and wish you every success in your new roles. I call on all & sundry to join me in congratulating Prof. Jimmy Imo!

Amanda Gustafson, MA invites you to create career resilience.

How did you make friends when you were a kid?
That might be your pattern for making professional connections now.

When I was in elementary school my best friend moved away.
The rest of the school year was miserable.
The next fall, I decided I was going to make friends with whoever moved in.

On the first day, I zeroed in on the new girl in my class.
I introduced myself and invited her to sit by me.
And happily she agreed and we played together at recess.
-Insert fast forward zipping noise here.-

When I moved states, I saw a woman in my neighborhood wearing a t-shirt with a Pi symbol on it walking home with groceries.
I parked my car, got out and introduced myself.
I told her I was new, I didn't know anyone, and I liked her t-shirt.
She invited me to lunch with her friends.
And now we go for walks and hang out at least once a month.
You might not be as blunt as I am.
(Although I recommend it. You probably have good pattern recognition for people who interest you.)
If you don't like my method, maybe give some attention to yours.

As you argue on issues, please remember what we read in the book called 7 HABITS OF HIGHLY EFFECTIVE PEOPLE. The Circle of Influence and Circle of Concern are simple but powerful ideas from Stephen R. Covey (author of the 7 Habits of Highly Effective People). They help you focus your energy wisely and reduce stress.

1. Circle of Concern
This includes everything you care or worry about, whether or not you can control it.
Examples:
Global politics 🌐
Economy and inflation
Other people's opinions
Traffic, weather, company decisions
Past mistakes
Wars, terrorism, government policies

🔗 Key point: You care about these things, but you don't control them.
When people spend most of their time here, they often feel:
Frustrated
Anxious Angry
Powerless

2. Circle of Influence
This includes things you can directly control or strongly influence.
Examples:
Your attitude and reactions
Your words and actions
Your work ethic
How you treat family and others
How you manage your health, time, and money
Skills you choose to learn

🔗 Key point: You may not control outcomes, but you control your response.

3. How the Two Circles Work Together
The Circle of Influence sits inside the Circle of Concern.
The more you focus on what you can influence, the larger your influence becomes.
Focusing only on concerns you can't control makes your influence shrink.
Example:
✗ Complaining about traffic every day → Circle of Concern
☑ Leaving earlier, listening to an audiobook, staying calm → Circle of Influence.

NEVER LOOSE FRIENDSHIP BECAUSE OF THE POLITICIANS THAT DO NOT KNOW THAT YOU EXIST. FEEL FREE TO PAUSE FOR INTROSPECTION IF YOU FEEL YOU ARE BEING MISUNDERSTOOD.

TRUTH IS SACRED: IGBOS

— BY PROF TEKENA NITONYE TAMUNO

Emeritus Professor Tekena Nitonye Tamuno (28 January 1932 – 11 April 2015) was a Nigerian historian and One of Africa's renowned Pro-fessor of His-tory and former Vice Chancellor of the University of Ibadan

Professor Tamuno died on Saturday, 11th April, 2015 in Ibadan, aged 83.

TRUTH IS SACRED:

IGBOS—BY PROF TEKENA NITONYE TAMUNO

I always insist that the greatest merit for Igbos in recent times is not simply the advent of the internet on the surface! It is the social media aspect of the internet which now allows independent thinkers to CHALLENGE the lies of history. In Nigeria, our little corner of the world, through social media presentations, scholars are now debunking the false stories perpetuated by the YORUBA PRESS (with the help of the NORTH who has always been PARANOID about Igbos). The Yorubas took advantage of their civil war take-over of the press to REWRITE the history of Nigeria as it favors them..., and if you believe them, "every post independence success in Nigeria was Awolowo influenced" and every problem in Nigeria was "instigated by Azikiwe, Ojukwu and the Igbos!" "The truth is reluctantly coming out" and Igbos are gradually being vindicated!!! Read this masterpiece below by Professor Tekena Tamuno, a great historian and former Vice - Chancellor University of Ibadan. By the way, he's not an Igbo man!

"IGBO ARE THE MAKERS OF MODERN NIGERIA" -- PROF TEKENA TAMUNO

The problem with writing skewed history is that it equally misinforms its target: Kayode Esho was a great jurist, but Akunne Oputa was the "Socrates" of the Supreme court. Enahoro was a young editor, but Azikiwe made him that young editor with Osita Agwuna from Enugwu Ukwu as his assistant, at his paper, the Southern Nigerian Defender in Ibadan, where my own father incidentally started as a rookie before shortly abandoning journalism for the stable berth of the civil service. The myth of Awolowo as building the first this and that does not match the documented economic history of the period.

Between 1954 and 1964, Eastern Nigeria was described as "the fastest growing economy in the world," by the Harvard Review; faster than China, faster than Singapore, and all the so-called "Asian Tigers." Awolowo is often credited with "free education"

But no one yet has pointed out any surviving school buildings of the period built by Awo. But all over the East there were quality schools built by the various communities using the Town Development Unions from 1954, and accessing the matching grants of the Eastern Nigeria Development Corporation. And this was the East with the poorest revenue resources of any of the regions.

...from public domain

This is besides the fact that Western Nigerian Broadcast Services, WNBS-TV founded in 1958 only preceded the ENBC-TV founded in 1959, by only seven months. But Outlook preceded Sketch by about 15 years. Azikiwe began the first modern library system in West Africa. The East had a system of city libraries starting with the very modern Ziks Library in Enugu. I Literally grew up in the Umuahia Divisional Library. These libraries were built all over the East. Schools in the East were built with libraries. Moreover the Eastern Nigerian Library Board had a system of rural and mobile libraries. There was nothing like it anywhere else in Nigeria: kids having library cards and able to borrow or order books from the public library. Give me the the first library over the first TV. I do not by this mean that Awolowo did not make his contributions, but the regular skewering of the facts, and angling of contemporary national narratives often makes it seem these days like the greatest contributor to the founding of Nigeria and its development is Awolowo and the Yoruba, when the actual facts speak differently.

The great Ibadan historian, Tekena Tamuno, was unambiguous in stating once at NIPPS, Jos, that " the Igbos are the makers of modern Nigeria. When they abandoned their project, Nigeria collapsed." We must remind Nigerians, particularly Igbo children, daily of these fact, to achieve what Achebe called " a balance of stories." And that also means we must read beyond the surface of things. Babarinsa's Guardian essay is angled carefully to maintain a revisionist

The Mbaise secondary school exists, the National High School Okigwe exists, the Ngwa High school exists, the Enyioyugu Grammar School exists, etc. These were solid schools built all over the East with matching government grants. But where are the buildings of the Modern schools in Western Nigeria? They do not exist. They were makeshift.

The Catholic church forced the Azikiwe government from its scholarship program, but it is also on record, that the Eastern government was the only government in the world that invested 45% of its revenues in education. The East had the highest number of schools; the highest school enrollment; the broadest penetration of medical services; and the best modern road network in west Africa. Indeed if we look carefully, the only public hospitals and most of the schools still standing in the East today, at various stages of run down are the schools and hospitals built by Azikiwe/Okpara. Every division of the East had a Joint Hospital as part of the Eastern Medical services. So it is often claimed Awo built the first television station; the first sky scraper, and the first Sports stadium, the liberty stadium in Ibadan. Well, these are prestige or white elephant investments.

First, the Eastern Outlook, the government paper of Eastern Nigeria was the first newspaper established by any government in Nigeria, and it was of such quality and impact that the literacy level of Easterners, and the depth of public information retailed by Outlook was without compare.

narrative. And that is to be always challenged, however innocent it might seem.

Even today, most Yoruba think that Awolowo founded the Universities of Ibadan and Lagos. No one has reminded them that it took Azikiwe's pressures for a University for Nigeria, in his meeting with Arthur Richards in 1946, that led to the constitution of the Eliot commission and subsequently the founding of the University College, Ibadan. This fact is even clearly conveyed in Michael Crowder's eponymous book, The Story of Nigeria.

Save Our Daughter from Breast Cancer!

Nneka Molokwu, one of the smartest, kindest, funniest people I know received devastating news that no 30-year old ever imagines: she's been diagnosed with HR+, HER2- breast cancer. After making a few jokes, her go-to coping strategy, she began a myriad of doctors' appointments and consultations. It quickly became clear to her (and her entire support system) that this is going to be a long road, with her treatment plan requiring chemo, surgeries, and radiation. As we help Nneka navigate this road, we are hoping to support her in any way we can.

Short of being able to erase her diagnosis, we are aiming to make all of life's responsibilities as manageable as possible to help her maintain her positivity and humor through this grueling process.

We are hoping to raise enough money to help her pay for medical bills that her insurance doesn't cover, supplement her monthly expenses when she inevitably has to take time off work, and allow her to pay for things to make this road a little less bumpy! Please consider donating to help our girl!

Celebrating Mama GO Uzo Nwakwuo — of Rising Sun Church of God! A Queen & Amazing Wifey

Celebrating you today is a joy because you are truly one of a kind. A woman of grace, wisdom, and divine strength. My younger brother's wife of his youth, yet to all of us you have become so much more — a sister, a pillar, a steady voice of reason. You manage resources with excellence, carry responsibilities with dignity, and love with a pure and loyal heart. Thank you for being a confidant, a friend, and a blessing that keeps multiplying in every direction. May God bless you richly in this new year of your life. May His protection surround you, His favor go before you, and His joy overflow in everything you do. Your light will never dim, and your steps will always be ordered by the Lord. Enjoy your special day, Mama GO — you deserve every good thing God has prepared for you See what my Yoruba friend sent me ooo! Omo, we just laughing like that.

80 years old, still strong, still vibing. According to Bob Marley "Rastaman don't give up"

Arthur Freds released the song "Decency" as Track 6 on his 2016 album Do You Know Jesus?. The song is inspired by 1 Corinthians 14:40, emphasizing order and proper conduct. It reflects themes of moral integrity, justice, and societal responsibility, with lyrics questioning the absence of equity and decency in the world. The track gained recognition across Africa, Central, and Western Europe, receiving positive written feedback. It is available for streaming and download on platforms like JioSaavn, where it has a duration of 3 minutes and 44 seconds.

THE YORUBAS DON'T WANT THE IGBOS TO BREAKAWAY FROM NIGERIA

Here are the reasons: Written by Chief Babatunde Abiodun

The truth is that we Yoruba people don't want Igbo people to leave Nigeria. This is the truth most of my people will not tell you. We need the Igbo people, yet we are afraid of their ingenuity.

A lot has happened to the Igbo people. They were killed during the war. Their properties were taken. They were removed from their government jobs. Their houses, churches, markets and even farm lands were bombed, yet they are standing.

Who would have believed that Igbo properties were seized in Lagos in 1967, and in 4 decades later, they have virtually bought the entire Lagos, and the only thing we could do is start destroying their properties in the name of building in the wrong places. And I ask, are we not the ones who sold those places to them? Where were the government when they erected one block?

No Yoruba want Igbo people to leave Nigeria. Every Yoruba knows that Mazi Nnamdi Kanu is right. They know he is fighting a genuine cause. But what happens to Lagos should Igbo get Biafra? With all the restrictions we connive with the Fulani to put against the Igbos, yet the Igbos are developing the South East at a fast rate. Tell me the South East states, Yoruba states are better than when you remove Lagos. None. These were cities bombed to the ground during the civil war, but our states were uninterrupted. How did they become more prosperous than those who stole their properties and money from the bank? How?

Who won't be jealous of the Igbo people? Tell me who? Would you believe that since after the war they haven't ruled Nigeria till today? I believe that if the Yoruba people were as industrious as the Igbo people, the Igbo people would also be jealous of them. These things are natural.

If you doubt what I am saying, then look at Lagos this Christmas. You will understand what I am saying. Every Yoruba is aware of all I said, but they won't say it.

I just hope Ndị Igbo remain with us in Nigeria. If they ever get this their Biafra, they will in less than 10 years expose the fact that the Fulani and we have been a stumbling block to their progress. The world will see how slow we truly are.

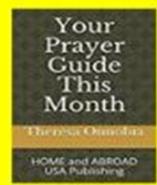

I am sorry for being so truthful today. I am already an old man and I had to say these truths before I meet my ancestors.
